Radio Concerts Improve.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—High-class broadcasting entertainments will be assured if the plans of the Department of Commerce are included in the contemplated radio laws.

These plans are that radio broadcasting stations which come up to certain specified requirements may transmit on a higher wave length than is now accorded them. The requirements are such that many of the 400 odd broadcast stations of today would be automatically eliminated from this class.

According to the latest plans, a special 400-meter wave length would be assigned to those stations with from 100 to 100 watts power, special modulation and other required features, a studio and a supervised program. The matter of daily program would be under the special supervision of the local wireless inspector to insure only the best programs and lectures obtainable.

This new arrangement is being planned so that at first there will be only one broadcasting station of this type in each city or section of the United States. Licenses will be issued to those that qualify as soon after the new law is passed as possible.

Where two or more stations in a single district qualify, a schedule will be arranged dividing the time for broadcast, so as to eliminate interference.

MEYER AND MEYER ADD LINE OF HABERDASHERY

Today marks the opening of a new haberdashery for Amarillo. Meyer & Meyer, popular merchant tailors at 312 Taylor street, are opening a complete dress and furnishings department in connection with their shop today. The new goods which have been ordered for some weeks have arrived and have been placed in the new fixtures manufactured especially for men's stores.

L. Meyer, manager of the local house, said yesterday that only the highest grade merchandise would be carried and that on account of the only slight additional overhead expense due to the addition of this department it would be possible to offer very attractive prices.

A free souvenir will be given to each man attending the opening today, both ladies and men. Meyer & Meyer have conducted a similar store in Albuquerque, N. M., for a number of years, having opened the Amarillo store a year ago.

CITY BRIEFS

Learn a word every day.—Today's word is—SABOTAGE. It's pronounced "sabotage," or "sah," a word, the word being French, without an exact English equivalent; and with the syllable equally accented. It means—a man-made strike. That is to say, where a force of dissatisfied workers deems it inexpedient to strike in a body, they may resort to "sabotage," by which each individual, while remaining at his post, does all he can to hamper production. It was borrowed directly from the French, who probably evolved it from the word "sabot," the wooden shoe much worn by the French working classes. It's used like this—"Sabotage frequently is practiced without any formal agreement, sometimes without even any definite general understanding on the workers' part and even almost unconsciously by individuals, making it very difficult for an employer to deal with."
